A NOTABLE OPPORTUNITY.

Dean Bosworth opened the speaking last evening at Central Union church.
Consideration for the other speakers led to his taking only a few minutes.
But those few minutes revealed to all present the fact that a great teacher was present. There is a wonderful attractiveness about Dr. Bosworth, hard to define. He speaks quietly and with directness, and every sentence tells.
The audience was most deeply stirred.
Honolulu has had nothing in a religious way for many years to compare with the treat in store for it from Dr.

Bosworth's course of lectures. These will begin this afternoon at 4:30 in Central Union lecture room. The general theme of the course will be "Messages of Jesus to the Men of this Age." Today's lecture will be upon the subject
"Who is Jesus." Everyone is invited to be present.

McCandless Replies To Pratt

SAYS THAT SO FAR FROM SUG-GESTING THE LANAI DEAL HE PROTESTED AGAINST IT.

"I see that Land Commissioner Pratt, and perhaps the Governor too, are trying to get from under on the Lanai deal, by seeking to create the impression that in some way I am responsible for it," said L. L. McCandless this morning. "Pratt says that I suggested exchanging the Fish Market property for the Bishop Wharf property, and that in some way it worked, and worked in his mind, until he was forced to trade off the whole of the public lands of Lanai. The idea seems to be, as near as I can make it out from his published interview, that after I had put the wicked idea of an exchange of some kind into his mind he couldn't get rid of it—he just had to trade off some public property or other, and so I am responsible for the loss of the Lanai public domain."

"Possibly I can refresh Commissioner Pratt's memory. A year and a half or two years ago, The Star announced that there was a proposition on foot to exchange the lands of Lanai for the Bishop-wharf property. That was the first public intimation of anything of the kind. When I read it I went to Pratt and urged him not to do it. The acquisition of the Bishop wharf I thought would be a good thing, but opposed the exchange of the Lanai lands for it because they might become available for settlement. I suggested that the Fish market property might be exchanged for it. It was the same class of property as the wharf property and was liable at any time to be taken by the United States government without compensation. Therefore if we got the wharf property in exchange for it, it might prove a good thing. I am not certain but that previous to this I may have suggested the exchange of the Fish Market property for the Bishop wharf property."

"At that time no question of the legality of exchanges had been raised. It was assumed that they were legal. And I believe now, that if such exchanges are legal, the exchange of the fish market property for the Bishop wharf property would be a good thing, if it could be done. But at that time, as now, I opposed the exchange of the Lanai lands, and urged Pratt against it. Then as now I believed that those lands ought to be reserved for settlers."

CRAWFORD CASE CONTINUED.

The trial of W. H. Crawford on a charge of conducting a gambling game, was continued until tomorrow by Judge Robinson. Judge Gear, counsel for Crawford, is busy with a hearing of the libel against the barkentine Fullerton, before U. S. Commissioner Davis.

veys for this island's fortifications.
The report that surveyors were about to come arose from the fact that the lighthouse department expects a draftsman.

The police recently discovered a fan tan game in full blast in the middle aisle of the King street fishmarket.
They broke up the game but were un-was injured to the extent of making amputation necessary, while he was on duty on the vessel.

PUBLIC LANDS COMMITTEE.

There was a meeting of the Public Lands Committee this morning for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No.
10 relating to pounds. Messrs. Clarke, Nevins and Thomas were heard on the side of the farming interests and H. M. von Holt for the ranchers. The meet-
